1. Please provide a recommendation for the applicant listed above to be used in the graduate admission process.
2. Please complete the evaluative matrix below.
3. Please attach a narrative that addresses your relationship to the applicant, and one in which speaks to his/her ability to perform at the graduate academic level.

The Columbia College graduate programs are designed for busy professionals by providing a weekend delivery format with intensive class sessions during specified weekends per semester. The remaining course work is performed by the student online with collaboration from the instructor. The program structure, therefore, demands a capacity on the part of each student for self-direction and discipline, as well as an interest in exploring concepts while building practical skills.
